Lynchings and the Negro.

Representative Blair, of New Hampshire, did not succeed in getting the tariff-mad congress to consider his resolution providing that the commissioner of labor be directed to myestigate and report in regard to assaults by men upon women throughout the country during the last ten years which have led to unlawful violence in the way of punishment and also to report other facts in regard to lynehings. Consequently we must witness the curious anomaly of an investigation of this American subject conducted under the auspices of a society ducted under the auspices of a society of English philanthropists at whose matical banks of issue, and calls for the head is a British duke,

It is, perhaps, just as well, however, that the collection of data touching this phase of current crime should have been left to non-partisan and impartial agencies. It is also her contention that the percentage of violent crimes of this character committed by negroes in the south is little, if any, larger than the percentage of those committed by whites; but she charges the southern people with concealing the evil deeds of the whites and of magnifying the evil deeds of the negroes to such an extent that a startlingly large number of innocent negroes are annually lynched in order that guilty whites may go

Miss Wells, as a witness of this subject, is doubtless herself given to ex aggeration, conscious or unconscious. It may be safely affir oed, however, that lynch law, hasty, fitful and passionate as it is, forms an exceedingly unreliable tribunal for the trial of unreliable tribunal for the trial of thirty years, in which fitting tributes trimes against the person. On the same day returns from Fike county showed that the Easton editor-congressma, had lost that last hope. Nothing short of a miracle can new, it seems, bring about flowerd aurchies's renomination, despite the fact that a month ago he appeared almost invincible. It is in order to trot out the familiar metaphor about the uncertainties of politics.

A special di-patch from Pittsburg quotes Secretary E. N. Raudolph of the State Serviary E. N.
